ABOUT THE HONOREE

Ruth C. Browne, SD, is President and Chief Executive Officer of Ronald McDonald House New York (RMHNY), which provides temporary housing and support for pediatric cancer patients and their families in a caring and secure environment, close to the essential care and resources they need most. Prior to RMHNY, Dr. Browne was CEO of the Arthur Ashe Institute for Urban Health (AAIUH), a best practice catalyst for interventions that advance health and educational equity solutions for culturally diverse populations locally and nationally. Dr. Browne was formerly the Principal Investigator and Director of the Brooklyn Health Disparities Center, a NIH funded Center of Excellence.

She is an Associate Clinical Professor at SUNY Downstate Medical, and holds academic appointments in the Schools of Medicine, Health Related Professions and Public Health.

Ruth C. Browne, SD

Dr. Browne is the recipient of numerous honors, including the Lewis and Jack Rudin New York Prize for Medicine and Health (2013), the JW Differenter Innovator of Change Award (2014), the Towsley Policymaker in Residence (2015) at the University of Michigan Gerald Ford School of Public Policy, the Packer Alumni Award of Honor (2017), the President's Award, SUNY Downstate Medical Center (2017), the 1199SEIU Impact Award (2018), and was an inaugural honoree on the Crain's NY list of Notable Women in Health Care (2018) as well as a recipient of two Fulbright Scholar Awards.

She is an active member of the National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Manhattan Chapter, advancing leadership opportunities for African-American women of all ages and an immediate past board member of the full-service, non-profit community hospital, Interfaith Medical Center, in Brooklyn, New York.

Dr. Browne earned a Bachelor's Degree from Princeton University, a Master of Public Health and Master of Public Policy from the University of Michigan, and a Doctor of Science from Harvard University School of Public Health.
